ON THE ROAD RTW / REHABILITATION SUPPORT

THE NEED FOR A SMARTER WAY

The traditional approach to rehabilitation services is to schedule a meeting which may be far away from the injured worker's place of residence or workplace. This can lead to missed appointments and delays in support. Recently there has been a shift towards on the road support with a greater emphasis on early intervention and improved efficiencies.

Many service providers report having "on the road" consultants but are unable to offer key support and conduct many assessments outside the office environment. Also travel is often seen as a means to charge excessively for services. The modern economic environment demands greater convenience, improved efficiency, better results and less cost for RTW services.
