Case Study

A serious vehicle accident left Joan Peterson with multiple physical injuries. At discharge time, the local hospital rehabilitation unit referred Joan to Hills Street Group to coordinate outpatient treatment.

Joan's home modifications and Activities of Daily Living retraining were provided by Hills Street Group, along with a coordinated community support package. When the time came for Joan to return to work, Hills Street Group assisted her employer by developing a workplace based rehabilitation plan.

Six months after leaving hospital, Joan had returned to her social, leisure and work activities. Early commencement of rehabilitation services had not only helped Joan to regain normal function rapidly but also significantly reduced the cost of her claim.
